THE ANNUAL EXTRAVAGANZA

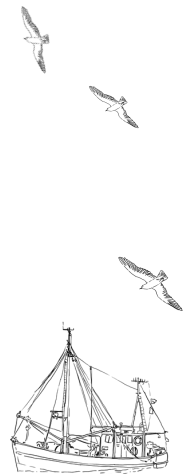

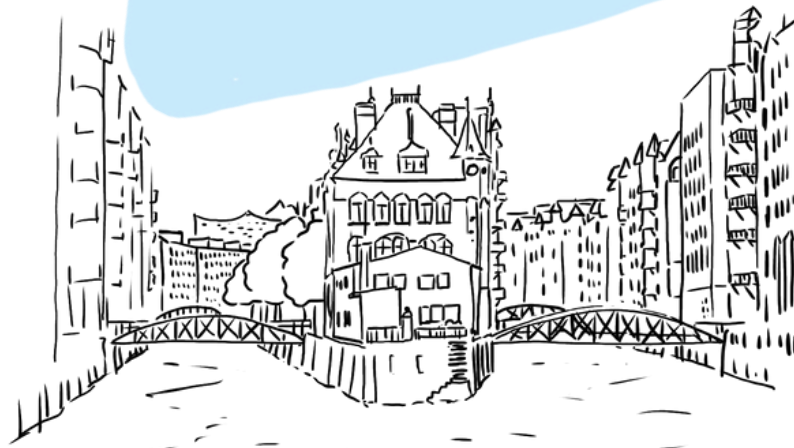

ECHOS OF THE CANALS OF HAMBURG'S SPEICHERSTADT

AUGUST 24, 2025

3-6PM

THE WESTSIDE WAREHOUSE

996 HUFF RD NW, ATLANTA, GA 30318

An afternoon of Hamburg-themed fun with an engaging program filled with music, art, Hamburg-typical foods, refreshments and more to celebrate the German community with its shared language, culture, and impact in Atlanta ... and to raise funds for the GoetheATL.

The Speicherstadt is the world's largest complex of warehouses. It was built into the Elbe River between 1883 and the late 1920s on thousands of oak poles as a free economic zone in Hamburg's port. Today, Speicherstadt is host to an array of leisure activities.

As of 2015, Speicherstadt proudly bears the honor of being Germany's 40th UNESCO World Heritage Site. According to the Committee, Speicherstadt — with its unique buildings and winding network of streets, canals and bridges — is an 'extraordinary example of representing one or more eras of human history'.

There's plenty to see outside the old warehouses, too. In the long canals between the former storage buildings, you can catch smaller ships making their way through the area.

Speicherstadt is a symbol of the connected world like no other.

At the intersection of trade, commerce, art, and entertainment, it represents the perfect theme for a fundraiser: creating friendships, support, and funding for artistic exchange and world-openness.

The Goethe-Zentrum Atlanta is a registered nonprofit (501(c3)) in the State of Georgia, an independent organization that – unlike the world-wide Goethe-Institut-Network - does not receive support from the German government for general operations and therefore relies on funding from private citizens, corporations, foundations, grants, partners, and sponsors to provide our wide range of German language and cultural programming here in the Southeast.

As part of the world-wide Goethe network, Goethe-Zentrum Atlanta is the preeminent non-profit source for the promotion of the German language and cultural exchange. The Goethe-Zentrum Atlanta provides experiences to enhance learning and the development of personal and professional relationships by uniquely combining immersive classroom and online learning, as well as integrated cultural programs to enrich learning opportunities, build relationships, and create a greater sense of community.

As a Kultur Ensemble, the Goethe-Zentrum and its partner Alliance Francaise d'Atlanta together form the German-French Cultural Institute of Atlanta, one of currently only 4 Kultur Ensembles across the globe and the one and only in North America.

We often partner with public entities such as educational institutions and the various consulates in the area and must adhere to strict event guidelines such as making events FREE to the public.

(We appreciate the opportunity to talk with your organization about sponsoring events.)

We accept tax deductible donations at any time.
